aurora win 3

the Aurora Text Editor is no longer sold and no longer supported by its author/owner (NText). The shareware version of the editor is still available at several shareware archive sites (both the last DOS release for 8086 and 80386+ processors and the Win32 console mode beta version). You can still use the program and below you will find a way to register Aurora32 (provided by Aurora's creator)..
