Evan Brooks' words, Tigers on The Prowl is: "...a detailed simulation of World War II's Eastern Front, this program has growth potential. Initially bug-ridden, its designer has labored in a Herculean fashion to make the program into THE simulation of armored warfare. Following this up with Panthers in The Shadow [which is still sold directly from HPS site, he will continue to refine the system and develop new editions. Recommended for the grognard only." The game has been superseded by Tigers on The Prowl II, which features even more realistic weather conditions, artillery capabilities, fortification features, and much more. As it stands, though, Tigers on The Prowl is undoubtedly one of the most realistic simulation of tank warfare ever created, and is a must-play for all hardcore wargamers. Just be sure to download the latest patch from HPS.
