Thank you for your time. I've worked hard this past week to complete this mini-game. I hope you like it as much as I enjoy producing it. It is my very first full game. I know it lacks an AI for the turtle, but for people who don't want a challenge it should be a blessing. I hope the mazes keeps you guessing all your life. Sometimes we just need a change and the random maze hopefully does. I'm not perfect, but I tried to produce a game that you all would play. It is rated PG-13. That's a little joke meaning just watch your kids and teach them good values like the turtle takes it's time and always wins.

For those of you who wants constant improvements here's another one with the picture honouring my two real parents in the intro screen. The TurtlMom game is the screens after the intro screen. I've worked really hard to embed the picture into the software so that it is a single program.

Well I've been looking up at all of my mistakes. Here is one that I think got most of the errors out if not all. It should play 100% of the time? I never like to be sure since I've learned anything can happen through God! I guarantee it will play 100% of the time or else I will try to make 1 more level for all of you to play. However someone has to tell me if they reached the end and what happened. You have to be able to reach the end of the game at least one time for me to make another level for you.

I've worked very hard on this one and I try to have good self-concept. However I know it doesn't have a very good AI. The turtle mostly sits in one place all the time. I'll try to work on it later however I like it that it is easy to capture. I'm not smart compared to God and I'm humble always to God since God takes perfect care of all my family!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

This is the very final one hopefully; Anymore changes will go into other categories unless it is a major change that is impressive? I'm trying to make it a perfect one.

Thank you Jesus Christ.

Well we have 13 levels now! The number 13 is usually an unlucky number, and it is an unlucky number for me since I have to produce another level haha.

I'd like to update the final from time to time on major updates.

In this issue we have 28 levels.

We also have cheat keys for all levels on round one.

You must pass the last level before the cheat keys work for round two.

The timed game on round two counts to 30 billion.

The counter is slightly different.

Well I've been praying heavily with much worry. So I hope this is the answer God has given me.

This is another major one for Turtl Mom. Due to recent news it is the prisoner's hope. In this one because of high demand you are able to break out of every cell block.

There are at least 30 levels so far enough to keep you busy for under 2 hours with two rounds.

More is planned for the future however don't get your hopes up.

God bless!
