AmigaDOS source code v42

<http://vetusware.com/download/AmigaDOS%20source%20code%20v42/?id=12781>

Let's finally bury the corpse. The Amiga is dead. There is no future, and there never was any hope as soon as they folded. If you love it, set it free

Borland Quattro Pro 5 for Dos 5.0

<http://vetusware.com/download/Borland%20Quattro%20Pro%205%20for%20Dos%205.0/?id=12784>

May be the last version published for DOS. Has database, statistical, data analysis, and audit functions. Can do sensitivity analyses, regression, solve for, matrices, and optimization.

Kickstart ROMS all

I can't forget Amiga. I think I played a game called Pegasus (I think that means a flying horse). Also, I think I played some ancient chess games on the Amiga back in the 1980's. It was back in the days when I had thick chess books but it overwhelmed me and I quit for over 30 years.

Borland is and always will be my favourite developer tools. I think in L.C.C.C. they used primarily Borland. From dBase IV, etc. and such.
