I've been working diligently to bring you this full 100% assembly intro. It is just a little program and nothing to brag about. However I am happy to make something that is my own. I went to community college for an equivalent of 2 years of education almost. Then I studied for another 2 years at home of real hands+on experience programming what I want. So I am happy that I have, unofficially anyways, that of a four year degree. I know I would never get hired for a regular job and that is okay. One day I hope to open my own business like my parents that I honour all the time. They don't have much and the little they have I love them for. Today I went out to see my own flesh mother work at her job. She had to help the tenants pick up the trash. All this time I thought she was rich and had it easy. Now I see she is a humble servant of GOD! Thank you Jesus Christ that it was not much but I went out and helped picked up a little too. Hopefully one day I can have my own business and not have to do the little things my own flesh and blood parents have to go through.

Well I wanted to honour my father. He said be flexible. So I decided to use Borland Turbo C 2.01 in addition to Borland Turbo Assembler 4.1. This update has a little musical I've worked hard and diligently to get this out. It has been tested on DOSBox 0.74 so it has sounds. Regular MS-DOS might not have sound. I'm not sure because I'm developing specifically in DOSBox 0.74. Once you reach a certain point your craft changes. It is planned that each craft eventually has its own unique powers. Right now there's only 3 standard crafts. Thank you.

My real parents worked hard all their life to raise us three kids: me (Nguyen Khoa Tien), my younger sister (Nguyen Khoa Thi), and my youngest sister (Nguyen Khoa Thuyen). I've decided to complete my transition into using Borland Turbo Assembler 4.1 to program for the rest of the way. If I remember correctly the license allows me to do whatever I wish with the source and product that comes from my work so long that I paid for the compiler in full. I have that paid for in full on my account. The reason I am using Borland Turbo Assembler 4.1 is because the demo software by Borland (eq Borland Turbo C 2.01) only allows for personal use and not commercial use. Borland C++ 2.0 allows for use so long that you have a Borland copyright sign. So I have decided to go with Borland Turbo Assembler 4.1 for freedom sake.

Thank you to my real mom Huong Thi Thuyen Vu for continuing to support me even in my adult years at 42 years old. I owe both my two real parents mom and dad Nguyen Binh Thuy to be successful commercially one day. Like all things people are not going to pay you unless you do something worthwhile for them.

Right now my programs are not valuable except to me.

I, Nguyen Khoa Tien, have finally done it. I've made my own character set. So this software is all in assembly. Bless my own mother for supporting me all this time. Honours to her and my dad Nguyen Binh Thuy for raising me up to be a programmer. Thanks to my two real sisters for lecturing me so I get used to hearing my wife when I have one haha. Also, thanks to my mom for showing me by taking care of me how I should one day take care of my own.

GOD from zero A.D. obviously gets the credit for my gifted inspiration to program however it is my parents who sent me and guided me to do the actual deed. hehe

I have tested the assembly program in MS-DOS 6.22 Plus. At least I have tested it on MS-DOS 6.22 in VirtualBox for Windows Vista.

Thank you Jesus Christ who died in 0 A.D. for all my sins for the rest of my life.
